MIRACLE FROM THE DEEP
GOLD AND HIGH FINANCE
WHO UNDERSTANDS
EITHER?

—By Arthur Brisbane—

(Copyright 1930 By King Features Syndicate, Inc.)
A miracle from the deep comes to encourage those who love and respect courageous men. Two brave German fliers, Will Rody and Christian Johanssen, and their Portuguese companion, Fernando Costa Viegas, have been found clinging to the floating wreck of their airplane.

Flying news relates the death of Peter J. Brady, president of the Federation Bank & Trust Co. of New York, and head of Mayor Walker's committee on aviation. He believed it was his duty to fly, and was not a pilot. He was killed when a plane piloted by James Goodwin Hall, breaker of many records, crashed into a house on Staten island.

The step taken by England "modifying" the gold standard, which means abandoning the gold parity of English banknotes temporarily, demonstrates Great Britain's determination to free herself from domination by the huge piles of gold on which France and the United States sit like old Father in the Wagner opera.

The British empire, finding itself without an adequate gold supply, must arrange to transact business without such a supply, and does the only thing possible.

In suspending the gold standard, without abandoning it, Britain goes back to her condition of 1924 and previously, canceling the gold standard act that required the Bank of England to sell gold at fixed prices, payable in pounds.

The New York stock exchange and Americans generally received the British news optimistically, putting up prices of important stocks. United States Steel went up more than 4 points and stock exchange authorities, taking steps to discourage short selling, acted wisely and promptly.

The English pound sterling sold off, as was expected. Britain had tried the impossible with her sudden restoration of the gold standard and the attempt to extend it to India. The British pound may sink to $3, probably not lower. But the British will remember that the price at which other nations buy your money doesn't matter much. France stabilizes her franc at 20 per cent of its original value, paying debts, including borrowing from England, with that kind of money. Since then, the French have accumulated more than 4,000 million dollars in solid gold, about one third of the world's total supply.

Prime Minister Bennett of Canada says his country will maintain the gold standard.

A "high French official" at Geneva says "France and the United States together can and must support the pound sterling." Perhaps they should have supported it earlier.

More than four billions in gold piled up in France, more than five billions in the United States, make up more than 60 per cent of the world's total gold supply. Such accumulations compel other nations to get along without gold if they can.

But no one need fear that our five yellow billions will diminish in value.

WILL EQUALIZE VOTE STRENGTH IN FIRST WARD

Board of Elections Calls Public Hearing On Friday, Oct. 2

CHANGES LISTED IN 3 PRECINCTS

North and South Township Precincts To Be Combined

A public hearing on proposed changes in boundaries of three voting precincts in First ward and the combination of two Perry township precincts will be held in the board of election office, East Liverpool, at 7:30 p. m. Friday, Oct. 2. C. A. Cavanaugh announced today.

Arrangements for the hearing at which protests, if any, against the proposed changes will be heard were completed by the board of elections today. Plans were made whereby the area of Precinct B in the First ward will be decreased while Precincts A and C will be increased.

Ballots Equalized

Need of equalization of voting strength in the three precincts prompted the board's action, Cavanaugh said, in proposing alterations in the boundaries. Where, at the August primaries, Precinct A was represented by 143 votes and Precinct C had only 118 to 467 in Precinct B, under the new arrangement it is proposed to increase balloting power in A to 269, in C to 232 while Precinct B will be cut to 227 votes, approximately.

It is also planned to combine the two township precincts, formerly known as North and South, and permit Perry electors to cast ballots at one place. This under the board's plan, will be located in the office of the township trustees on South Broadway.

Changes in the precincts were made following surveys by board of election members and City Engineer F. S. Barckhoff. Notices of changes will be posted in the three districts.

Proposed Changes

The proposed boundary changes follow:

Precinct A—West of South Ellsworth to west corporation line, south of Wilson to corporation line.

Precinct B—Bounded by South Ellsworth, the west corporation line, Wilson and West Fifth sts. This precinct also includes a small corner off Jennings ave. between West Fifth and West Seventh.

Precinct C—Bounded by West Fifth, the north corporation line, the west corporation line and South Ellsworth ave.

SHIP PICKS UP LOST AVIATORS

Three Europeans Safe After Six Days, Nights On Atlantic

HALIFAX, N. S., Sept. 22.—Safe after six days and nights on the stormy North Atlantic, three men who had been drifting aboard after the wreckage of their airplane had been sighted but did not indicate how they would be disposed of. Viegas was said to have an injured leg. It was held likely that the Belmoira, bound for Leningrad, would drop them at St. Johns or transfer them to a passing ship.

In the absence of more complete information, aviation circles were speculating as to what must have been the fliers' experiences during the 148 hours at the Mercy of wind and wave.

Enters Wrong Bed, Man Hurt In Escape

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—Frank Tyler, 25, returning from a party early today, ascended to the roof of the wrong house and undressed, under the impression he was in his own bedroom.

They are Miss Anna Bell, 24, a waitress, and George W. Jamison, 30, who might have escaped had he not returned to the crumbling house for a friend after rescuing his mother and sister.

DETROIT, Sept. 22.—Memory and martial music brought back the freshness of youth to 100,000 feet today as the American Legion passed in review for the 13th time since its members were mustered out of their country's service.

Shoulders that once ached under pack straps and since have become rounded and stooped over again as the boys of '17 who are the men of '31 headed the cry of "forward march."

Line Four Miles Long

The line of march was fully four miles long. It started forming at 10:30 a. m. on Jefferson avenue and Grand boulevard—three miles from the reviewing stand, and the last units were instructed to report in parade order four hours later. Headed by O. L. Bodenhamer of Indicted on a charge of manslaughter by the September grand jury, Walter Kountz, 30, of 926 Fairview st. East Liverpool, entered a plea of not guilty when arraigned before Judge W. Frank Lones, in common pleas court, Lisbon, this morning.

British Move Looked On As Adoption of Variable Standard

World In Finance

(By Associated Press)

Great Britain entered its second day of six months suspension from the gold standard, and with signs of slow adjustment to new conditions, and the London stock exchange prepared to open tomorrow.

Trading on the New York exchange went back to normal proportions with prices rallying slowly from yesterday's reaction to the British step. An official ban against short selling remained in force.

The British pound sold at 104 francs ($4.077) and 105 francs ($4.11) at the opening of the official money market in Paris. The Amsterdam Bourse reopened and the Netherlands bank announced it would take over any outstanding contingent positions.

A bankers conference in Brussels decided to constitute a consortium with resources of $200,000,000 to support the local market, if necessary. German stock exchanges and metal markets remained closed.

The federal structures committee meeting in London promised to support the rupee. The band of Bombay raised its discount rate from 7 to 8 per cent.

The bank of Brazil switched its exchange transactions to a dollar basis of 16.1 milreis to 100 cents.

England planned to enforce anti-profititeering measures. Purchases of foreign exchange were restricted.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—The American government regards Great Britain's temporary suspension of the gold standard as likely to improve economic conditions in England and elsewhere in the world.

This was made clear today in highest quarters.

The position was taken that the actual suspension could not be regarded as serious as had been the constant possibility of the action.

So far as the United States is concerned, it may bring a stronger competition in certain exports where American business is in competition with British products.

This amounts to about ten per cent in such countries as the Argentine.

Where Is He?

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Sept. 22.—Something has happened to England's gold standard. I don't know any more about it than a prominent man knows about relieving depression.

I know you can't get any gold out of the Bank of England, even with a check from the king, endorsed by Gandhi.

We got all the gold over here, and look how pretty we are sitting. "Yeah!"

It looks like the financial giants of the world have bungled as much as the diplomats and politicians.

This would be a great time in the world for some man to come along that knew something.

Yours,

Will Rogers

HOOVER IN DETROIT

President Hoover rang the tocsin
for federal economy in his speech
before the American Legion convention. It is a welcome sound in this nation, which seems to support the policy that governmental expenditures must be constantly increasing.It required courage for the President to go before the convention and outline a course of action precluding passage of legislation to give the veterans full and immediate payment of their adjusted service certificates.It required courage to make a declaration that increases in the taxes of the wealthy cannot be counted on to fill the treasury.It did not require courage however, for the President to call on former soldiers for help in carrying out an economy program. The American Legion and other veterans' organizations are composed of proved patriots. If they can be convinced that the principals of the President or any other leader,
are sound, they can be depended upon to help.President Hoover's speech, together with the fact that he went to Detroit to make it in person,
will have a decidedly favorable reception. He stands squarely for federal economy, and he has convinced the people of his entire sincerity. If the follow-up is as good as the beginning, Mr.
Hoover's presidential stature will increase.

CONFIDENCE

The navy's new zeppelin, Akron,
did not make its maiden flight
Monday. "Unfavorable atmospheric conditions" were given as the cause in an announcement postponing the event until a later date possibly Wednesday.To ordinary observers the weather yesterday seemed perfect. Certainly there was nothing apparent in the temperature or the velocity of the wind to keep a "flying fortress", as the Akron has been called, in its dock.There has been consequently, a vast deal of skepticism concerning the Akron that might have been avoided if the navy had taken the trouble to explain the postponement of the zeppelin's maiden flight in logical detail.The Akron represents a huge investment in air defense. To keep that investment on a sound footing, public confidence in the ship must be unshaken by rumors such as those which made the flights
of the ill-fated British ship, R-100, nightmares to the air ministry and its crew.The navy department will do well to keep the public better informed hereafter when the Akron
is shut up in its dock by "unfavorable atmospheric conditions."
Its reasons are good the people should know about them.

What Others Say

DAIRYING AGAIN LEADS THE WAY.Minnesota's principal agricultural industry, dairying, is once more leading the way back to better prices and more profitable farming. In the last three months the prices for butterfat have increased more than forty per cent,
and at a time when most other commodities are selling at low price levels this piece of news is of great significance to Minnesota agriculture. Dairying is the largest single source of income for most Minnesota farmers.On September 4 choice butter was bringing twenty-nine cents on the Minneapolis market, which was a gain of ten cents over the price
last spring. The New York market was offering 31½ cents and Chicago 29½ cents for the best grades of butter. Last spring the butter market touched its lowest level since before the war, but in a comparatively short time the price began its gradual climb upward. Drought damage to pastures, which reduced the outputhelped in stiffening the butterfat price.The place of the dairy cow in agriculture as one of the factors that can be depended upon to add stability to the farm income has again been convincingly demonstrated at a time when it can be most appreciated. Though prices for butter are twelve and fifteen cents below the high averages achieved during 1928 and 1929, the steady gain this product has been making in the last few months is most encouraging particularly when other commodity prices are considered. With the prices of feeds lower than ever before in the history of dairying and a steady demand for dairy products
insuring a good market, the farm that raises dairy cows has a dependable source of income. And every dollar of that income will buy more goods now than at any other time since before the war.
Certainly when one looks at the United States as a whole there is reason for feeling encouraged over the position which the Northwest holds in relation to other sections.

The Stars Say

For Wednesday, Sept. 23

Fairly propitious planetary influences prevail on this day, according to the lunar and mutual aspects between the dominating planets. There may be a desirable change, accompanied by advancement, benefits and some financial emoluments and personal prestige. There may be minor anxieties in the personal relations and also some perplexing or vexatious incident in connection with writings or correspondence.

If It's Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may expect a year of fair progress and moderate prosperity, with a welcome change, some advancement and enhanced prestige or preferment. But there may be a trivial anxiety in the domestic, social or affectional contacts or a disagreeable episode in connection with writings. A child born on this day should be ambitious, popular,
friendly, fond of the good things of life, although it may have a ready or sarcastic tongue.Notable nativity: Thomas M. Osborn, humanitarian.

Get Up Nights?

Try This 25c Test

Physic the bladder as you would the bowels, drive out impurities and excessive acids that cause irritation, burning and frequent desire. Get a 25c test box of BL-KETS, the bladder physic, from any drug store.
After four days if you are not relieved of getting up nights go back
taking butch leaves, juniper oil, etc., acts similar to castor oil on the bowels. If you are bothered with backache or leg pains, arising from you get your regular sleep.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—Some courageous examples of "putting on a front" have zipped out of the depression along with amazing loyalty among employees. Especially has this been true of the so-called servant class.On West 43d st there is a small shop-keeper whose cashier and two clerks have not received a cent in salary for 14 months. They have lived on their small savings. In this way the owner has been able to pay the rent and light bill and the business has been saved.A fairly well known theatrical man related to friends that the Lamb's other day that he had only been able to avoid bankruptcy through loans of his valet, who not only remained a faithful employee but sold a piece of property in the Bronx to tide him over.I know a man whose life savings were swept away by trusting a bank's advice in investments and whose position of $30,000 a year went with it. He now lives in a cheap rooming house in Staten Island. He keeps up contacts with old friends who never heard him whine. Early every morning he cries papers at a ferry entrance.There is a manufacturer in Westchester who went to the wall seven months ago. The next morning he told the staff of servants at his country home of his plight. They pooled life savings to stave off foreclosure on his house and have remained on the job, without salary, since.Social workers found an astonishing army of former stenographers, secretaries and other office workers whose plight is made doubly difficult to alleviate because they will not accept anything smacking of charity. Any number are reported eating one meal a day only.To my notion the bravest spirit of all is a song writer whose tunes were whistled everywhere four years ago and then a sudden eclipse. He is the reception clerk, greeting other ambitious lyricists at a Broadway publishing house which once published his songs.Speaking of eclipses, there is perhaps no figure in the public eye in New York who accomplished such a complete fadeout as the bespotted Grover Whalen. Two years ago he overshadowed even Mayor Walker,
who appointed him, in public interest. He was in news pictures daily, news reels weekly and the topic of a thousand stage, comic weekly and comic strip jests.Whatever may be said of Broadway, it mints picturesque comments
now and then. A single at the Palace had finished in a burst of applause. A rail bird turned to the man next him and observed: "A neat hop on the ball."The Tenderloin has not forgotten
the cowardly shooting of children by gangsters. It has resulted in a revulsion among even flinty denizens of the Tenderloin. I am told that in a 47th st. coffee pot the other evening a dice player passed a stool occupied by one of the booze sacketers and sneered:
"Hello yellow! Supposed you are all heeled to snook up on a few baby buggies." The gangster sat stiff and white but said nothing.
When he finally got up to go his tormentor called out: "All the nurses should be asleep by this time. Get working, here."most spineless of the press agented Broadway had men. "Hopped up,"
he often displayed a fierce bravado
but afterward he hid in abject terror, popping into a sweat at every knock at the door, and sleeping under the bed.In all the ripe modernity stuffed in Earl Carroll's magnificent new playhouse the most practical to me is the tiny push button light on the back of each chair so that customers facing them may read pro-grams or look at wrist watches
when the theater is dark.From a Brooklyn column: "Then there are columnists who try to appear mossbacks from Gallipoli, adoring the Roys and Elmers out yonder and sighing to sit again in front of the hotel in a tilted chair.
But when vacation comes they sail for the Riviera to hob-nob with expatriates."That's telling Gallipoli where to get off alright, alright.ACID stomachEXCESS acid is the common cause of indigestion. It results in pain and sourness about two hours after eating. It is responsible for most of the everyday ailments
that people suffer: sick headache,
sluggishness, nausea, biliousness,
gas on the stomach, etc. The quick corrective is an alkali which will neutralize the acid. The best corrective known to medical science is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained standard with physicians in the 50 years since its invention.
One spoonful of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia neutralizes instantly
many times its volume in acid. It is harmless and tasteless and its action is quick. You will never rely on crude methods, never continueto suffer when you learn how quickly, how pleasantly this premier method acts. Please let it show you—now.Go to the drug store and get a bottle to try. Take it tonight, and follow the simple directions you find in the package. Learn what it means to have a well-alkalinized system. See how much better your general health will be. How seldom you will catch cold.Be sure that you get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia that physicians prescribe. It is sold in 25c and 50c bottles at drug stores everywhere.To keep the teeth white and guard against acid mouth, use Phillips' Dental Magnesia; it is a superior tooth-paste. Adv

Gastric Ulcer and Causes

One of the most common diseases of mankind is gastric ulcer.
Apparently this disease has increased as a result of our modern methods of living.

DO COPELAND

In the recent published statement, an eminent brain surgeon states that stomach ulcers
are caused by a disturbance in a certain portion of the brain. He believes that the
"diene phalon,"
the part of the brain that controls our emotions, has much to do with the stomach. He considers it probable that irritation here may be directly responsible for the formation of gastric ulcers.This announcement is of great interest. This is particularly true because of the fact that many theories have been advanced as to the cause of this disease. One by one there have been abandoned.Ulcer of the stomach, which is the same as "gastric ulcer," or, as the doctors call it, "peptic ulcer,"
has been recognized for many centuries. For years it was believed the disease was due to a blocking of the blood vessels supplying a portion of the stomach. Under these circumstances, it was supposed the gastric juice would destroy any portion of the stomach having lowered vitality.It has been proposed, too, that sudden changes in the body temperature from eating extremely cold or hot foods, might be a factor.
While such practices are bad, it is doubtful if they would cause ulcer.Seamstresses, domestic servants, saddlers, carpenters, shoemakers
and salesgirls appear to have a particular tendency to this disease.
The nature of their occupation hashad its effect in placing pressure on the stomach region and perhaps interfering with free circulation.There is no doubt that these factors, together with mental anxiety,
have ill effects upon health.
In certain cases, alcoholism, or specific diseases, are definite factors in causing stomach ulcer. But a really definite cause has never been found.The disease sometimes follows acute infections. It is one of the complications of severe burns in-volving large surfaces of the body.
In such cases, it is believed the ulcer follows the absorption of "toxins" or poisons.At one time it was believed smoking caused this condition. This is very doubtful although it is noted that the disease appears to be more common in smokers than in non-smokers.There is such uncertainty about stomach ulcer that it is to be hoped the new theory of cause may prove conclusive. Anyhow it is interesting.

PLAYING WITH FIRE

BY WILLIAM
MCLEOD RAINE

SYNOPSIS

Mrs. Doris Silver, a dude ranch guest, is rescued from a runaway horse by a handsome stranger, much to the annoyance of her companion, Ransie Brennan. The stranger meets Lee Reynolds, owner of the dude ranch, and fixes a flat tire on her car. She hires him to help on the Lazy R ranch. When she notifies Brennan who is her foreman, his insolent manner infuriates her and she discharges him. When his threats fail to frighten her he forces his embraces on her. She reaches for a gun, which accidentally explodes and wounds him slightly. The new hand saves Lee from further trouble with Brennan. Dunc Daggett, an old ranch helper, recognizes the stranger as the son of a former friend.

INSTALLMENT 6

PLAYING A LONE HAND
"I'm not trying to fool Miss Lee. But I've got reasons for not telling every one I'm Jack Hadley."

"You in trouble, son?"
"No. A man died in a Los Angeles hospital the other day. Just before he passed out his mind got to wandering. He told about my father's death."

"The old man drew a plug of tobacco from his hip pocket and cut off a chew. His eyes gleamed savagely. He had personal reasons for interest in this subject. 'What did this fellow say? Was he one of the bunch of lousy coyotes that did it?'"

"Yes. It was on his conscience. He was a renegade serving with Francisco. It got him to see an American lined up and shot, but he didn't let out a peep. The point of his story is that the man who led the outlaws to the mine used to work for my father and is now living on a ranch near Spring River."

Daggett spat at a flat stone and made a center shot. "Dog my cats! Who is this bird? An' where does he live? At which ranch?"

"Don't know. When this sick man began to talk the nurse thought his mind was wandering. She didn't pay any attention until he mentioned my father's name. She's a friend of our family. The man died without repeating the name of the betrayer. She says it was an American name, not Mexican."

"Would she know it again if she heard it?"

"She thought so."

"Hmp! Worked for yore dad, he said. Quite a lot of scalawags did that, off an' on. So that's why you're here—to find this lousy hobo?"

"That's why I'm here."

The old timer looked at him curiously. In this young fellow's quiet manner was a threat more deadly than bluster.

"Count me in, son, long as there's a button on Jake's coat," Daggett said.

"No. I'm playing a lone hand. All you can do is give me information. You've been here a long time—know everybody in the Spring River country?"

"All the old-timers. Yep I drifted here to the Lazy R right soon after what happened at the mine. Been here ever since, first with my pappy Lee Reynolds an' then with the old boss."

"I'll want to check up on the whole list." Abruptly the man tossed a question at his companion. "What do you know about this fellow Ransie Brennan?"

"I know he's mean an' ugly as galvanized tin." The startled eyes of Daggett sought those of the man in chaps. "You ain't suspectin' Brennan are you?"

"I suspect every possibility till he ceases to be one. What about his past?"

"He came here soon after I did. I ain't got any medicine on his past. Ransie don't talk about it. But he ain't yore man. He can't be. It ain't reasonable that I'd spend fifteen years with a fellow who helped kill my best friend and left me for dead without me gettin' hep to him."

"Why? It took place after dark. You couldn't identify the murderers, could you?"

"No—except one, maybe. He was a Mexican. Had a scar above the left eye. He was the one put me out when the attack first started. There was a full moon."

"I know that. I was there."

"Sure enough. You an' yore dad an' Big Bill an' me. I always figured it was some of the Mexicans workin' at the mine betrayed us to that devil Francisco. An' it was a white man, by this fellow in the hospital's story?"

"Yes. This outlaw Megarens was a lieutenant of Francisco at that time, wasn't he? Did you ever hear whether he was in that raid?"

"No. May be so he was, maybe not. Those fellows were always scatterin' an' comin' together again. Son, I'll never forget that night, an' I don't reckon you will."

"Never."

The young man looked grimly across the saffron-hued desert to the porphyry mountains. He did not see the shriveled greasewood, the parched mesquite, the gray-green cholla, nor did he see the silvery sheen of the sun rays streaming over them.

What he saw as the stark setting of that red tragedy which many years ago had leaped out of the night and changed his life.

The mine lay far up in the Sierras. Jack Hadley was resident manager, and at this time he was working only a small force, all natives except Daggett and Big Bill. Hadley's motherless little boy was with him.

That little boy, now a full sized man, still remembered fragments of the talk in the cabin before he fell asleep.

Daggett had rambled on in his garrulous fashion discussing a projected railroad through the hills. Big Bill, who had just returned with the monthly pay roll for the men, had heard there was a party of surveyors in the mountains.

"Don't get excited, Bill, about that railroad," Daggett advised. "I got all het up about one coming in to Ajo twenty years ago and most rode a mustang to death to beat it into town an' buy me some lots. It ain't there yet, nor liable to be. A railroad ain't ever been built till you see the choo-choo trains running."

Hadley rose, walked over to the bunk where his small son lay, and tucked him in. "Sleep tight, Jack," he said, with a warm smile which promised love and protection, the smile that within a few minutes was to be blotted out forever.

The eyes of the boy drooped. He fell asleep.

And awoke to the sound of crashing guns. Daggett was sinking down upon the bunk, smothering him where he lay. He caught a glimpse of brown men charging at his father, who stood in the center of the room with a smoking revolver in his hand.

It seemed forever to the small boy before he could burrow out from under the body of the man pinning him down. He heard voices outside the house as he worked to free himself. One was harsh and dominant, the brutal voice (so he learned later) of Francisco, the outlaw chief. The other was that of his father, quiet and steady.

"So. You keel my men, two of them. You tell me lies—lies, Meester Hadley. You say this is all the money your man bring. I do not believe, but if so you are sairtainly onlucky." The man interrupted himself with a savage laugh. "You have 30 seconds, Meester Gringo. Where iss that money?"

"You have it all. Figure it out, you fool. We are working 35 men. If you multiply—"

"Poof! You beeg man there. Can you talk?"

Big Bill let out a cry of rage cut short by the roar of guns.

When little Jack Hadley crept out of the cabin the raiders had gone. He found the riddled bodies of Big Bill and his father.

Ransie Brennan straddled to the horse Kansas had run up and saddled for him. The animal was a square-built, short-backed bay with a deep barrel body.

"He ain't hurt much," Dunc volunteered, watching him.

"No," agreed young Hadley, and added: "If he's not a crook he's got all the earmarks of one."

"I never liked him, not from the first. Always knew there was something shady about him. I bet he has swung many a wide loop in his day."

"Queer. Soon as I saw him this morning, I felt hostile. Hated him pronto. Why?"

Daggett did not answer the question. He was watching the ex-foreman.

"See how he forks that brone boy, draggin' savage at the bit an' drivin' in his spurs. He's mean, I tell you. Never did treat a horse right."

By Jinks, Tequila is sure enough pitting.

The old-timer's voice grew squeaky with excitement. "Didn't I tell you he was mean? See him kick Tequila in the belly. I wisht that barrel-bodied bay would kick his lights out. Here he comes. Look out."

The last words were a shout of warning. In the saddle once more, his face a map of purple rage, Brennan caught sight of Hadley's scoffing grin as the horse plunged forward. With a jerk of the rein he guided the animal straight at the cowpuncher.

Jack ducked, just in time. In a cloud of dust horse and rider swept past at a gallop and dashed down the road.

"He tried to run you down," Dunc screamed.

TODAY

ue seriously, "Gold, gold, yellow and gold" is too firmly established for any successful attack.

Under that act, if you had a 10-pound note the Bank of England was compelled to give you a certain amount of gold for it.

The British overestimated their financial strength, especially when they tried to put gigantic India on a gold basis, thus helping to destroy the value of silver and making worthless the money of more than half the people on earth.

What the effect of Britain's action, of the action forced on Great Britain, will be on this and other countries you will learn from our professional "great financiers."

And as they know as little about world finances and the gold fetish as a child unborn, you will not learn much.

Experienced financiers who do not guess have no definite opinion as to the ultimate results of Britain's action.

It might increase the value of silver by convincing nations that it is dangerous to destroy one of two metals that have been used, side by side, as money for 5,000 years.

Any British obligations specifically payable in gold or in dollars will be paid according to contract. There is no hint of repudiation of any obligation.

Mr. J. Piermont Morgan, who talks briefly on all occasions and rarely for publication, made an exception yesterday, telling a reported in London that he looks on the British gold action as "a hopeful sign, and not a discouraging event."

He knows about British conditions and believes that the British government has taken the second of necessary steps, the first being to balance the budget, the second this step in regard to gold. He predicts "the restoration of trade in England."

HOLD SERVICES FOR W. E. WELLS

Capital and Labor Pay Homage at Bier of Manufacturer

EAST LIVERPOOL, Sept. 21—

Capital and labor Monday afternoon joined hands at the bier of W. E. Wells, Sr., 67, spokesman for the American Ceramic industry and chairman of the board of directors of the Homer Laughlin China company, who died at his home in Newell Heights, Newell, W. Va., Friday.

Wells in the Laughlin plants in Newell were still all day and business houses in East Liverpool were closed from 2- to 2:30 p. m. during the funeral of the man under whose guidance the Laughlin company grew from a six-kiln plant to the world's largest manufacturers of pottery.

Business associates of Mr. Wells during his 42 years of association with the Laughlin company, friends and relatives from many out-of-town places attended the service. Memory of Mr. Wells, oftentimes referred to as "East Liverpool's first citizen," was lauded by Rev. Isaac L. Wood, D. D., formerly of East Liverpool, now pastor of the First Methodist church of Niles, who delivered the funeral sermon.

Assisting Dr. Wood in the service was Rev. M. Rudolph Miller, pastor of the Newell Presbyterian church. Solo numbers were given by Miss Mildred Weaver, soprano, who sang, "There's a Beautiful Land on High," and Edward T. Kaufman, tenor, whose selection was "Enough To Know." Miss Weaver and Mr. Kaufman also sang a duet, "O Love, That Will Not Let Me Go."

The casket was banked with scores of floral tributes, many of which came from Pittsburgh, Wheeling, Steubenville, New York and other distant points.

Hundreds of friends, including many employees of the Laughlin company, who came in daily contact with Mr. Wells, viewed the body Sunday. Services were conducted Sunday night by East Liverpool Lodge No. 258, B. P. O. Elks, of which Mr. Wells was past exalted ruler.

JAPAN TO FAVOR SONG POLICIES

Government Notified Minister of Plan to Approve Plan for Peace In Manchuria

TOKYO, Sept. 22—The Japanese government today notified its minister to China that it stood ready to approve the proposal of T. V. Soong, Chinese minister of finance, for the appointment of a joint Sino-Japanese commission to endeavor to solve the Manchurian controversy.

While this definite step was being taken toward amelioration of the difficulties between China and Japan, Rengo news agency here received an unconfirmed report indicating the military invasion of Manchuria by Japan was spreading.

The report said Japanese military authorities at Changchun, terminus of the South Manchurian railway, had sent troops to Harbin, inland Metropolis of Manchuria in response to urgent appeals from Japanese residents there.

gentine, where surveys recently were made.

The British action is looked upon by this government as the adoption of a variable standard rather than the complete abandonment of the gold standard.

Still Based On Gold
It was pointed out in official circles that world trade would continue to be based on the gold standard, whether embodied in the dollar, the pound or franc.

There is strong possibility that the action, while lowering wages and rents in England, will stimulate the buying of raw materials.

In this case, the United States would profit by the action as most of its exports to the United Kingdom are in the form of raw materials.

It can now be said the British action has been impending for many months. There has been a gradually increasing amount of British funds being invested in the United States, the latest figures estimating it at 1,500,000,000.

Pound Value Down
Adoption of the variable standard is regarded by Washington as likely to have profound effect temporarily on exchanges and cause temporary dislocations in the international world.

The first real effect was to decrease the value in gold of the pound and a consequent rise in commodity prices in England.

The British action calls for a large amount of readjustment in Great Britain, but has had no material effects on commodity prices in the United States.

There may be a decrease in imports, but the Washington government does not expect it to have an appreciable effect in the United States, as only a small amount of American goods shipped to England are out of the luxury class, except raw materials such as cotton and wheat.

The American government is convinced the movement will have no real effect in the United States and will definitely improve conditions in England.

IMPROVED SALEM HIGH SQUAD TO FACE NILES GRIDDEERS FRIDAY

THE DAY In Sports

JOE SEKYRA FACES TEST
WILL OPPOSE LOUGHRAN

Dayton's blonde Bohemian youth, Joseph Sekyra, victor over Charlie Retzlaff in one of the year's biggest fight upsets last week, faces the test of his young career tonight when he battles Tommy Loughran of Philadelphia at Greensborough Stadium, New York City. It's a fight involving two popular heavyweights in a battle that's important to each and a real fight it will be. Sekyra had his start in the Dayton Eagles' club gymnasium where, in 1927, he was the big drawing card for fight shows in the Miami Valley. Only 21 years of age Sekyra fought almost every week, topping shows held weekly at the gymnasium. He was good, plenty good but few considered him as a serious contender for national title laurels.

Joe, however, continued his climb, gave Emmett Rocco of Ellwood City, Pa., two bad lickings in Youngstown climbed higher to win several fights in Madison Square Garden, N. Y., then suddenly was forced into semi-oblivion because of "staleness". Fighting too much almost proved disastrous to his titular hopes.

Still young in years Sekyra last week climaxed a comeback campaign marked with ten straight knockouts by outclassing Retzlaff. A victory over Loughran will place him in the front rank of championship contenders but he is not expected to defeat Loughran, as good a fighter and boxer as Retzlaff can claim today.

Ohio fans especially those who know Sekyra intimately, are hoping for a victory. It may be that at last the Buckeye State will have a world's champion.

"I'm entirely satisfied, considering conditions, with the showing the boys made. I think we'll have another good football team in Salem."

Thus speaks Floyd Stone of his Salem High grid eleven which last Saturday lost to Canton McKinley, 12-0.

With any kind of "breaks" Stone hopes to put out a team that will more than win its share of games the rest of season. Fans are expectant too, and a large gathering will be cheering for victory over Niles at Reilly stadium Friday night.

Problems facing coaches and officials on the football field were given thorough discussions by referees of the Northeastern Ohio Big Ten Athletic league, gathered in their annual get-together at Massillon Monday night. It was probably the largest meeting of its kind ever held by the association, about 65 attending.

Dr. J. H. Nichols, noted Western Conference grid official, headed a discussion of gridiron rules and an interesting discussion it was. Various angles to the grid code hitherto somewhat of a mystery to coaches were threshed out and clear explanations given.

It appeared that the league will face difficulty in the selection of a successor to Warren High, three schools who were given invitations to join declining. East Liverpool, one of the trio, refused the invitation with explanation that the league was too far out of the German City's district while Struthers and Girard were not interested.

For the coming 1931-32 season, at least, the circuit will be forced to continue with only nine school members but it was voted to count basketball and football games played with Warren in the coming league standings.

FOREMEN ANNEX 7-4 VERDICT IN LOOSE CONTEST

Jimmy Fitzpatrick Bests Lee Christen; Play Again Wednesday

SARTICK HITS HOMER IN FIRST INNING

Body-Makers Rally After Victims Score Four Runs In First

Held scoreless for eight innings after they counted four runs in the opening frame, the Salem All-Stars were outclassed by the championship Foremen's club team of the Mullins Manufacturing corporation 7-4, in the opening game of the milk fund benefit series at Reilly stadium Monday night.

Fitzpatrick Winning Hurler
Loose fielding when errors meant runs spelled defeat for the All-Star aggregation but due credit for the victory must go to Jimmy Fitzpatrick, Mullins' star pitcher. Fitzpatrick allowed only eight hits and hurled fine ball after the initial frame.

Lee Christen, one of the circuit's touted slappers, was Fitzpatrick's victim, the Foremen's club outfit touching the former Ohio Edison ace for 13 hits. Poor support, however, was the main factor in Christen's setback.

The teams clash in the second game of the series Wednesday night when Watkins, absent last night when he attended the Northeastern Ohio Big Ten Interscholastic Athletic league banquet at Massillon, will oppose George Early.

A home run by Mike Sartick, doubles by Ted Scott and Harry Vincent, an error and Joe Kelley's single started the fireworks for the all-stars in the first frame, four runs crossing the plate before the side was retired.

Mullins, however, aided by Pete Sanders' miff of an easy fly, singles by Rafferty and Campbell, a walk and Dorche's double, rallied to knot the count in the second frame.

The all-stars failed to score the rest of the game while the Foremen scored one run in the fourth, fifth and sixth innings to clinch the verdict.

Bob Campbell connected for four straight hits off Christen to lead Mullins' batting attack and also fielded nine chances with only one misplay. Caldwell had five chances in the field without an error while Scott had eight putouts for the all-stars.

New York, Senators Tie For Second Place In American League

New York's Yankees fell back into a tie with the Washington Senators for second place in the American league as Wesley Ferrell hurled the Cleveland Indians to a 5-1 victory Monday.

Ferrell allowed Ruth and Co. nine scattered hits to win his 21st verdict of the season. His team-mates bunched eight safeties off Charlie Ruffing to ease through to the decision.

Senators Trim Chisox
The Senators took advantage of the Yankees' setback and defeated the Chicago White Sox, 5-3, the two teams now sharing second place laurels in the circuit.

Tappling off in preparation for the world series, the Athletics divided with Detroit, winning one game 3 to 2, and losing another 6 to 5. Jimmy Fox hit a home run in each game, his second coming with the bases filled in the seventh inning of the nightcap and tying the score.

Tony Kauffman, St. Louis Cardinal relief pitcher supplied the high light in the day's national league program when he held Brooklyn hitless for 4 2-3 innings while the league champions came from behind to win in ten innings, 11 to 10.

Keds Nose Out Braves
Cincinnati took their third straight from the floundering Boston Braves, 3 to 2, when they fell upon Seibord for four hits and two runs in the eighth inning.

The Phillies peeked away at four Pittsburgh pitchers to take their series opener, 6 to 4. Bill Harris, the Pirates' rookie sensation last-ed only four innings. Jim Elliott held the Pirates well until the eighth when Ray Benge had to go in and smooth things over.

Rogers Hornsby's pitching staff received a fine drubbing as the New York Giants made 27 hits good for a 15 to 7 win over the Cubs. Hal Schumacher went the route for the winners, while five Chicago flingers had little success.

INJURIES RUIN PROSPECTS FOR OHIO COLLEGES

Veteran Ohio U. Center, Mount Union Star On Crippled List

Approaching the season's first important football week-end, coaches of Ohio college gridiron squads sent charges through their paces at an increased tempo today.

Unseasonal weather, too warm for serious scrimmaging, lent a "light practice" aspect to yesterday's training. Wittenberg turned to night practice, both to escape the heat and to accustom the team to playing under the lights for Saturday's game with Georgetown.

Regulars Injured
Injuries began to make apparent inroads into starting lineups. Lowell Livingston of Marshall, Mich., only available veteran center at Ohio university, reported with an infected foot, while Ohio Wesleyan lost three regulars for the time being.

Robert King, promising center prospect, was put out for the season at Mount Union when a supposed sprain was found to be a broken ankle. Sheehan, promising guard, was lost to John Carroll with a broken hand.

Herb Meyfarth, a star for Case in 1929, returned to the Scientists lineup to give added strength to an already veteran team. Over the fence at Western Reserve, a sophomore, Linsz, was showing up his veteran competition for the quarterback job.

Ohio Northern was the exception of the Ohio gridiron rule yesterday, as the team engaged in merely a light workout in preparation for entraining Thursday for West Point, where it meets Army Saturday.

Northern has developed speed and deception as its best defense and to offset an exceptionally light team this year.

Coach Butler at Oberlin is letting the veterans shift for themselves for a day or two while he scans sophomore material. Oberlin yesterday began light practice. The opening game with Kent State is still two weeks away.

University of Cincinnati activities ran into the third week with continued stress on offense, while Xavier university was shaping up in a manner pleasing to Coach Joe Meyer.

What The Stars Did Yesterday

(By Associated Press)

CHICK FULLES, Giants—Clouted homer and four singles against Cubs.

JIMMY COLLINS, Cardinals—Tripled in tenth to drive in run that beat Robins, 11-10.

ED DURHAM and ED MORRIS, Red Sox—Beat Browns in both ends of double-header, allowing only seven hits all told.

LOUGHRAN MEETS DAYTON BATTLER

Master Boxer of America's Fistiini Opposes Dayton Youth in New York Contest

NEW YORK, Sept. 22—The master boxer of all the heavyweights, Tommy Loughran of Philadelphia, tunes up his fighting equipment against Joe Sekyra, Dayton, O., trial horse, in a ten round bout at the Queensboro stadium tonight.

Counted out of serious contention after he was knocked out in three rounds by Jack Sharkey in September, 1929, Loughran has fought his way back to the top with a series of brilliant boxing exhibitions that have made him an idol to New York fight followers.

In his last three New York appearances Loughran has gained decision, with ludicrous ease, over Max Baer, Ernie Schaaf, and Victorio Campolo the Argentine giant to whom Tommy conceded 50 pounds. Sandwiched in with these victories was another decisive triumph at Chicago, over Tuffy Griffiths.

The Philadelphian is an odds-on choice over Sekyra although the Ohio battler has been staging a comeback of his own in recent months.

THE HOME KITCHEN

By Jeannette Young Norton

With or without skin—which makes the better baked apple? True, the skin does impart a pleasant flavor, but many insist that the apple baked without its skin is flakier of texture.

Large apples are best for baking, and those not absolutely ripe have the tartness that improves with cooking. Of course, all apples should be well cored, not a bit of pip or scale left. Fill center with white or brown sugar, or seedless raisins. Place in a buttered baking dish, large enough to hold all apples without their touching each other. Cover bottom of pan with water to prevent burning and bake in a moderate oven for about 45 minutes, depending on size of apple.

Well-flavored apples need no additional seasoning—just a little white sugar during cooking. If, however, the apple is a bit flat, then additional flavoring like brown sugar, raisins, dates, cinnamon or nutmeg plus a few drops of lemon juice will improve its taste.

Here is a method of preparing apples to resemble baked ones, but without the use of the oven.

Whole Cooked Apples
6 or 8 medium size apples
1 cup sugar
1/2 cup water
1 cup brown sugar
1 tablespoon butter
3 tablespoons milk
1 teaspoon gelatin
Cook to a syrup the white sugar and water. Add the pared and cored apples whole, and simmer until apples are tender. Soften the gelatin in two tablespoons of cold water, then dissolve in the hot apple liquid. Cook together the brown sugar, milk and butter until thick. Serve as a sauce, pouring over the hot apples.

If desired, haked or chopped walnuts, almonds or pecans can be added to the brown sugar mixture and poured in the cored apples just before serving.

TODAY'S RADIO PROGRAMS

Something different in the way of pickup of crowd noises and music at football games is planned for the Saturday broadcasts this fall.

The parabolic microphone, a device which collects sound for broadcasting just in reverse of the action of a search-light, is being made ready by NBC engineers for its first practical application outside of the studio or theater.

According to plans the microphone, which with a huge copper bowl reflector, is a quiet weighty piece of apparatus, is to be mounted upon a small truck so that it can be moved about the football field to pick up the cheers of the fans and the music of the band.

It is hoped that this plan will add considerable color to football broadcasts.

Poker Game Blamed In Masury Killing

WARREN, Sept. 22.—A grudge over a poker game today was blamed by Trumbull county authorities for the death of Robert B. Culver, 28, of Newcomerstown, O., who was killed in the Cottage Inn, located near Masury, O., last night.

The man died of a fractured skull after being knocked through a door of the establishment, authorities said. He was dead when county officials arrived and was taken to a morgue at Sharon, Pa.

Three men, two of them, co-owners of the inn, where held today in connection with the death. One of the suspects, Norman Seidie, 3, of Sharon, admitted he had lured with Culver but denied he was fighting with him when the victim was thrown through the door, sustaining the fatal injuries, it was said.

SANFORD, Me.—Frank Libby, motoring through the countryside, espied a hawk circling overhead. Suddenly the big bird dropped something. Libby stopped and picked it up. It was a one and one-quarter pound pickerel and Libby appropriated it for dinner.

THEATER Attractions

Two of the latest movie releases from Hollywood play for the last times today at local theaters.

"Merely Mary Ann" bringing that lovable pair Janet Gaynor and Charlie Farrell together again is the State theater's attraction.

A sweet romance between a shy little servant girl in a London boarding house and a brilliant but unrecognized composer makes the story one of sheer delight. It is especially suited to the talents of these young stars. Deryl Mercer as the land lady does splendid work.

"Guilty Hands," starring Lionel Barrymore and boasting a fine cast composed of Kay Francis, Madge Evans, William Bakewell and C. Audrey Smith completes its run today at the Grand. A mystery drama of new plot, clever and baffling it gives Barrymore a chance to equal his work in "A Free Soul."

"ALEXANDER HAMILTON" comes Wednesday to the State theater for a two day run.

George Arliss is starred in the title role.

"Alexander Hamilton" is based on Hamilton the man, rather than Hamilton the statesman. It depicts the strange ways by which a notorious adventurer temporarily caught and held the imagination of the fiery champion of human rights—and the dramatic way in which he freed himself from false accusations of dishonesty.

It makes the return to the screen of Doris Kenyon who plays Mrs. Hamilton.

June Collyer plays the part of the alluring adventures—the role done by Jeanne Eagels in the stage production. Others prominently cast are Dudley Digges, Alan Mawbray, Rolfe Harolds, Charles Middleton, Montague Love.

"SILENCE" is Wednesday's feature at the Grand.

Clive Brooks plays the leading role.

"Silence" is the story of a likable and handsome crook whose crimes bring ruin and death to the woman he loves. His daughter, while a baby, is taken from him, and brought up in the home of a kind foster-father. Years later, the crook, still pursuing his lawless career, meets his daughter. When the girl is threatened with disgrace and ruin because of her real father's past, the crook, by a great sacrifice, attempts to shield her. Only the girl's great love and courage save him from death.

Clive Brooks plays the central character of the crook, and flaming-haired Peggy Shannon, who made her screen debut in "The Secret Call," plays two roles in "Silence." She is seen as the wife and daughter of Clive Brooks, but the two characters never meet in the story action. Marjorie Rambeau is prominent in the cast.
